One day some army officers dined at the house. Grandfather Huxley polished his sword until it glittered, and wiped his white neckcloth with trembling fingers. At the table the conversation turned to things military, and the old man, filled with fire, told of that wonderful campaign of '47. The officers listened respectfully—they were excellent fellows; but when Grandfather Huxley dropped back in his chair, he

He awakened finally, with a start. The crust over the smoldering coals had fallen in, and the room was bright. From somewhere below was audible a faint, creaking cry, a wail that beat against the ear insistently, that paused

A well-known druggist here at home, when asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture could be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affections with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleaning these most important organs and helping them to lift and filter from the blood the foul acids and waste matter which cause

Last Thursday evening the first meeting held for the purpose of instituting a division of Ancient Order of Hibernians was held in the Y. M. C. U. Hall, Times block. W. J. Thibodeau was chosen chairman and explained the object of the meeting. Mr. Thibodeau called on the older members of the order to explain the objects and benefits of this great order. Edward Attridge and Dennis Shean, as members of Division No. 1, A. O. H., instituted in Houlton in 1885, briefly and concisely outlined the benefits both socially and fraternally derived from a membership in this ancient and honorable order. The chairman then called on the Rev. Father McCarthy, who in an able and eloquent address outlined what was necessary to become a good citizen, a good Hibernian and a good Catholic, and scathingly denounced modernism that was fast creeping into our nation, and calling upon those present if there were any who were tainted with that new idea to abandon it and get back to the faith of Jesus Christ for which our forefathers died. Rev. Father McCarthy held the closest attention of all present during the 30 minutes of his address. A temporary organization was formed and the following officers chosen.

President—James Donnelly, Esq.
County President—Dennis Shean
Vice President—Gregory Cassidy.
Recording Secretary—W. H. G. 30th.

Financial Secretary—Kenneth Shorey.

Treasurer—Fred Monahan.

Chaplain—Rev. Father McCarthy.

After an address by the president, James Donnelly, the meeting was adjourned, with prayer by the Rev. Father McCarthy. The final meeting before institution will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 11, in the Times block.

BIJOU THEATRE

The Bijou Theatre is still doing a wonderful business as more people have visited this Popular Theatre this week than before. Nothing but the highest praise is heard from everyone attending this theatre. This week the management shows their appreciation of the patronage they are receiving by putting on an extra Vaudeville feature, in presenting John Barlow a clever blackface comedian, who does his act once in the afternoon and once in the evening to the great delight of everyone, while Mr. Griffin and Miss Mae Donald still continue to gain popular favors by their excellent work.

John G. Stout, representing the Dun & Co.'s Commercial agency is in town on business this week.

Hon. Ira. G. Hersey went to Portland this morning, where he has business before the law court.

Miss Anna Barnes, Librarian at the Cary Library, had an important paper at the Teachers Convention in Bridgewater last week.

The High School and Ricker and some of the grades in the town schools had no sessions on Friday, as the teachers were in attendance at the teacher's convention.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hadley Drake, of North Yarmouth, will be interested to know of the birth of a son, to them on Dec. 1. Mrs. Drake was formerly Miss Ross Lermond of this town.

We are requested to say that the selectmen will be obliged to enforce the ordinance relating to sliding on the sidewalks of the town, and all those who violate it, are liable to suffer the penalty.

Fox Brother's have a very interesting display of articles worn, found, and used, on Peary's last trip to the arctic region which were loaned them by Chief Engineer Wardwell of the steamer Roosevelt. These are in the west window.

A. R. Gould the backbone of the Maine and New Brunswick Power Company was in town Monday on business. The power will be in Houlton by the time the station is ready to take care of it, and if it proves the same as in the towns that it has reached so far, will be a great improvement over our present light.

The new addition to the Grange store on Green Street, is nearly completed, and it will be a great help to the already crowded quarters. Power will be put in, and machinery for grinding and mashing feed, will be provided on the ground floor, while on the second floor there will be new lines added to the stock of merchandise.

The Ladies of the Congregational church will hold their Annual Sale of their vestry on Wednesday, Dec. 15th. In the evening a musical entertainment will be given principally by the children of the Sunday School. The Cantata "The Crown of David" by Gabriil will be presented. Admission 25 cts. Proceeds to go towards furnishing the new vestry. Patronage respectfully solicited.

Mr. J. S. Atherton of Millinocket was in Houlton last.

Elmer Lancaster of Veazie has recently come to Houlton, where he will be employed.

Mr. H. L. Cates of Caribou is in Houlton this week in the interests of the Aroostook Telephone Company, which is doing a great deal of work on its lines in this town.

The TIMES has received a very unique and pretty Calendar from Smith the Kendall Street Grocer and Market man, for which he has our thanks.

Miss Packard entertained the Ricker Travel class at her home on Court street on Monday evening, being President of the club she was the hostess, and performed her duties most admirably.

Mr. Archie Dill who has received the appointment to Annapolis Naval Academy leaves here the last of the month for Annapolis where he will enter a school and prepare for the Examination that takes place in April.

Miss Fern Park goes to Presque Isle this week, where she will look after the interests of G. A. Hagerman's Presque Isle store during the Christmas rush. Mrs. Robert Stuart will have charge of Hagerman's Music Parlors in Houlton.

Under the new management the Pastime theatre is presenting some of the most realistic pictures ever shown. In fact those who have seen similar pictures in larger cities, say that those at the pastime surpasses them all.

The two Elm trees on Kellerman Street, near where the Bailey brook crosses were removed last week by road commissioner Small. These trees have always been in the road, which is naturally narrow, and the wonder is that the town has not had to pay some one damages for running into them.

At the meeting of the Woman's Club on Monday of this week, there were present as guests, the Fact and Fiction club, and the Ricker Travel Class, all of whom were delightfully entertained by Mrs. White of Caribou, who gave a talk on "Paris as I saw it," during her European travel last year, which was listened to with a great deal of pleasure. Only those who have heard Mrs. White can appreciate what a treat these clubs had on Monday.

Prof. H. R. Davis went to Presque Isle Friday last on business.

Avon D. Weeks of Masardis, was in Houlton Saturday on business.

S. L. Black returned Monday night from a trip to the northern part of the county.

S. H. Webb of Rockland was calling on his trade in Houlton Saturday.

The rain of Tuesday took off what little snow we had, but the roads are in fine condition for the next fall.

The usual list of drowning accidents have commenced to be reported. Too much care cannot be taken by the boys and girls, in keeping on solid ice, and not taking any chances.

Lewiston is discussing the question of having its public library open on Sunday. This plan has been adopted with much success in Portland and Waterville, and it would seem to be a good thing anywhere.

Many people have no other time to read and in a community where there are many young people, the reading rooms would be enjoyed more on Sunday than any other day. Then those whose homes are in boarding houses, the delightfully pleasant library building, affords an hour or more of refined entertainment and instruction that might not be found possible on week days. [Exchange.]

In our last weeks issue we spoke of the convenience of having one telephone by the removal of the Independent from our office. This was not meant as any reflection on the Independent, or any one connected with it, but simply the convenience of only having one line to do business over, if it had been the removal of the New England, the convenience would be just as much, having the Independent alone to do business with. The Independent Telephone Co and all those connected with it deserve a great deal of credit for what they have accomplished, besides lowering the rates of the competing Company, it carried its lines into sections that the other companies would not touch thus making it a great convenience to those communities that before were not in touch with the larger centres. The line that originally started to accommodate one section, grew to larger proportions than the originators ever dreamed of.

Change of Time on B. & A.

The proposed change of time on the B. & A. which was spoken of in these columns some time ago takes place next Monday Dec. 18, 1907.

While one train has been taken off each way on the main line, the town of Houlton will receive practically the same service as it has had for some years past.

As will be seen below the morning mail train from the west with the sleeping car arrives three hours later, and this will do away with the noon mail train from Bangor, while the Pullman for the west leaves here an hour or so earlier, doing away with the two o'clock train for the west, the morning train for the west and the night train from the west are practically the same, while on the Ashland branch, there will be but one train running through to Fort Kent. This latter train is the only one that will seriously interfere with Houlton's interests, as those living on that branch will be obliged to remain over night when coming to Houlton. The train under this new schedule will leave as follows:

Going South No. 2 leaves Houlton 8:40 A. M.
Going South No. 8 leaves Houlton 4:35 P. M.
Going North No. 1 arrives at Houlton 11:25 A. M.
Going North No. 7 arrives at Houlton 8:05 P. M.
ASHLAND BRANCH.
Leaves Fort Kent 5:40 A. M.
Arrives at Houlton 9:55 A. M.
Leaves Houlton 10:15 A. M.
Arrives at Fort Kent 2:40 P. M.

Thursday Dec. 5th, the regular meeting of the "Women's" Christian Temperance Union was held with Mrs. Bumpus, Kellerman St.

The program was carried out, an interesting and thoughtful paper, subject: "Thanksgiving," by Mrs.

Libby was listened to with interest by all present.

Plans for future work were discussed.

At the National Convention recently held in Nashville, Tenn., nearly $8,000 was raised to aid the organization in carrying on the work, and telegrams reporting the passage of state prohibition bills were received with much applause.

A rising tide of conviction that national prohibition is possible at no distant time, was in evidence throughout the Convention and found voice in our President's rallying cry, "On to Washington."

"The Kenton Pines."

There is no college graduate or undergraduate, but what will be interested in the "Kenton Pines" a new book, by Clarence B. Burleigh, and published by Lorthrop Lee and Shepherd of Boston, $1.50.

Those of us who have been in Bowdoin College for four years, will certainly appreciate the story from beginning to end.

The location of The Kenton Pines is in the town of Brunswick, although not by that name, and the descriptions of the ground, the buildings, and associates all take one back to the well known college, celebrated for its many noted graduates, and its "Pines." It abounds in Bowdoin spirit, and holds ones interest from cover to cover.

Investment.

At no time in the history of Aroostook County, has there been a time, when there was so much literature pertaining to mining schemes and "wild cat" propositions coming into this county as at present.

As we all know the financial conditions in our large cities has been in a very unsettled state, and the result is that stocks of all the leading railroads, all the best industrials, so called, and everything in that line, which are considered by business men in any community as gilt edge in every respect, and safe and sound, have dropped many points, in some cases wrecking financially those who have invested their money. If these stocks which have always been first class in every respect are uncertain how much more uncertain are the "wild cat" schemes, that these people are endeavoring to sell to the small investor.

They come to Aroostook County and tell the man with small savings and earnings that if they put their money in today they will be able next year to sell for much more than they paid, painting in glowing colors their "get rich quick" schemes; they do not offer you a dividend paying stock, that is reliable, for they would not have to come so far from the financial districts as Aroostook County to sell their goods if it was on a paying basis. They offer you stock in mines and schemes that are as yet undeveloped, they get your money to pay out to get more "suckers."

These promoters tell you what great prospects they have, and compare this stock that they wish to sell with one of the few thousands that have paid, and then go on to tell what their stock will be worth if you only put your money in.

At the present time, any man who has money to invest, can find plenty of chances to use it, with safe results right here at home. You say a few dollars a month will not bring me anything here at home. Well try putting aside these few dollars a month in one of our many banks at 4 per cent for a year and at the end of that time you will have no trouble in getting opportunities to loan the sum on good security, at a good rate.

There are too many chances for a man working on a salary, or one who is endeavoring to lay up something for a rainy day to take.

There are some men right here in Houlton who have put a great deal of money into these things, but they are men who can afford to lose, and if they do, they or their families will not be deprived of the necessities of life, or any of its comforts.

If anyone has money that they will not feel the loss of, it is no ones business how or where he invests it, but when the grocer or milk man, the wood dealer or merchant is deprived of what is due him, then it does not seem to us that it is right to give good money for mining stock that by right belongs to some one else.

CHAS. E. DUNN'S COLUMNS.

Cause and Cure of Stock Flurries.

At a time when prosperity had reached its highest mark, when crops were good and all manufacturing industries were crowded with orders, a sudden shock was felt throughout the chief financial centers. Certain New York banks, known as the Morse-Heinze-Thomas chain, the control of which had been bought for the special object of promoting the personal fortunes of copper speculators, failed. Conservative bankers had refused them assistance when most needed. Their failure created a nervous spasm on the stock market, and a lack of confidence in other banks. As a result the Knickerbocker Trust Company closed its doors after a run, followed by a run on other New York and Brooklyn banks. Then four of the big Westinghouse manufacturing concerns failed, owing to the money stringency. Each failure toppled over a lot of others, and a sense of insecurity began to generally prevail. Meantime the stock market showed rapid fluctuations, always toward lower prices, even the most substantial enterprises dropping from twenty-five to forty per cent, and even more.

During this time the banks became more and more timid in letting their cash go. Clearing house certificates were adopted in the principal money centers, and savings banks enforced the rule of thirty to sixty days' notice for the withdrawal of funds. The adoption of clearing house certificates was enough of itself to indicate the gravity of the situation, as these have never been resorted to except in extreme emergency. The following table will give an idea of the times and extent to which these were issued.

Year	Aggregate	Maximum	Mos.
1890	$ 7,375,000	$ 6,800,000	3 1-2
1891	22,595,000	21,900,000	7
1893	11,471,000	9,000,000	4 1-2
1894	17,728,000	16,418,000	8 1-2
1897	20,565,000	22,410,000	4
1898	24,915,000	21,881,000	4
1899	19,045,000	15,265,000	3
1893	41,400,000	38,280,000	4

The Chicago clearing house, which had never issued these certificates before, adopted them as a means of protection, and also enforced the rule in regard to savings.

It is to be noted that the starting point and direct cause of this financial storm of 1907 was in the failure of stock speculators. The same has been one of the chief causes of the worst panics which this country has experienced. The first to feel the slightest tremor in money stringency are the men who deal in futures and stock margins. They are as much gamblers as those who pass their money over the faro table or who stake their fortunes on the horse race. These dealers in futures and margins, while it is true that they may slightly improve a good situation, invariably make a bad situation worse than it otherwise would be.

William E. Curtis, that acute newspaper observer, was undoubtedly correct when he wrote from first-hand observation in New York: "The trouble on Wall Street during the past week would never have occurred if speculation on margins were not possible. It was entirely a gamblers' flurry, and the crisis was caused by gamblers whose confidence in the prices of the stocks they held was shaken by the collapse of the copper conspiracy."

The laws of France prohibit gambling in government securities. It also prohibits "corners" and all attempts to control the supply or affect the prices of grain, flour, bread, wine and all other kinds of food and beverages.

Speculation in government securities and in food products is also prohibited in Germany, Switzerland and in several other European states, and twelve or fifteen years ago an earnest attempt was made to secure a law by Congress to prevent speculation in agricultural products. From 1891 to 1895 thousands of petitions were presented in both houses and hundreds of bills were introduced prohibiting speculative transactions in cotton, wheat, corn, pork, provisions and all other farm products. The Fifty-second Congress in 1892 passed what is known as the Hatch anti-option bill (H. R. 7845, Fifty-second Congress, first session.) The Senate concurred with numerous amendments, which the House rejected. A conference committee was appointed to adjust the difference, but it never made a report, because the members could not agree, and so the crusade failed.

Can we not hope that President Roosevelt will thoroughly investigate this question and find some way in which it will be possible to at least regulate these transactions in margins and futures, so that the gambling fraternity will not turn the country upside down every few years? If the object of a free government is to make it easy for the honest man to do an honest business and difficult for a dishonest man to fleece the public, it should be within constitutional grounds to either prohibit dealing in margins or at least keep it within bounds.—"Our Day."

Uncertainty in Politics.

Herbert Parsons, president of the New York County Republican Committee, was talking in Albany against self-confidence in politics.

"To win," he said, "a man should never be sure of winning. Confidence and boasting, to my mind, always imply defeat. I'll tell you a story."

"A man came shooting from a brightly lighted window one night, and landed with a crash on the sidewalk."

"It's all right," he said to the crowd that had gathered, as he stiffly arose. "That's my club, the Eighth precinct, I'm a Smith man and there's ten Jones men in there. I'm going back to them. You stay here and count them as they come out of that window."

"He limped back into the club. There was a great uproar. Then a figure crashed through the window and struck the sidewalk with a grunt."

"That's one!" said the crowd.
"No," said the figure, rising, "Don't start counting yet. It's me again."

CATARRH CANNOT BE CURED

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

Notice of Foreclosure.

Whereas Vincent M. Theriault and wife Marguerite E. Theriault both of Fort Kent, in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, on the eighth day of August, 1907, by their mortgage deed of that date recorded in Vol. 56 Page 562 in the Northern District Aroostook Registry of Deeds at St. David, conveyed to me the undersigned the following described real estate to wit: Lot number fifty eight (58) in the north half of Township 17 Range 6, now New Canada Plantation, in said county containing one hundred and one and 12-100 acres more or less. Also the south one half of lot number forty three (43) containing one hundred and fifty six acres more or less situate in Township 18 Range 7 now town of Fort Kent in said county. Also all that part of lot number eighty four (84) in Township 18 Range 6, now said Fort Kent, being the north east part and that portion of said lot which lies north east of the Caribou road so called which leads from Fort Kent village excepting and reserving small house lot sold to Firmin Pelletier. Also the following described real estate situate in Township 18 Range 7, now said Fort Kent to wit: one undivided half interest owned in common with Felix R. Morneau of a strip one hundred rods long from the west end of lots numbered, thirty nine (39) forty (40) and forty one (41) adjoining the Fish River so called; and whereas the condition of said mortgage is broken, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage, by reason of said breach of condition, and give notice for the purpose of effecting said foreclosure.

Fort Kent, Me., November 10th, 1907.

Dr. Gladden's Message to the Church.

Dr. Washington Gladden, the moderator of the National Council of Congregational churches, delivered a notable address at their recent opening of the council in Cleveland, Ohio. He believes that the need of the hour, the solution of the present social problems, is to place the emphasis in Christ's Gospel where it belongs. He said:

"The word to be spoken to this industrial and social order of ours is the word that John the Baptist spoke, and that Jesus caught from his lips and repeated. Repent. Change your minds! Your idea of what life means is fundamentally wrong. You are building your whole civilization on a false basis. You cannot live together in that way. You will simply devour one another. The weak will always be the prey of the strong. You will have strife, confusion, misery, as your perpetual portion."

"You were made to share in one another's good, to be helpers, one of another, not to strive and fight but to cooperate. It is not that you are to neglect your own interests in promoting your neighbor's simply to identify yourselves in interest with your neighbors; to love your neighbors, not better than yourselves, but as yourselves. This law of good-will which is simply the law of justice, nothing more, will bring peace and welfare to all."

"Such was the challenge of Jesus Christ to the social order which he found existing, which was, in its fundamental principles, the same social order that exists today, the same social order out of which has grown our rotten cities and our insurance piracies, and our rebate robberies, and our meat trusts, and our labor wars. He condemned it as radically wrong; he called for its reconstruction upon a ruling idea which would change the direction of human conduct. And this, as any one may see who will read the synoptic gospels, was the main thing that He came into the world to do. To establish in this world the Kingdom of Heaven was His mission; He assumed that men would be ready for Heaven if they lived the heavenly life upon earth."

"If the world could only have learned from Him that great truth, what ages of strife and misery would have been spared us! The church of Jesus Christ is called to replace this principle of good-will and service. It is called to give to society a new organic law, the law of love. It is called to organize industrial and civil society on Christian principles. This is its business in the world, a business too long neglected, but not now impossible, if the church can discern this time and gird itself for the work."

"To do this it is only necessary that the church shall know that she is here in the world to seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness; to seek it, not by turning her eyes to the skies, but by fixing them upon the world; to seek it and find it here, in shop and store and factory and mine, in bank and counting room, in kitchen and drawing room, in sanctum and studio, wherever human beings join hands or touch elbows in the tasks and pleasures and comradeships of our daily life. To fill all these human relations with the spirit of good will and kindness, of unselfish ministry; to make men and women feel that the great joy of life is not the joy of strife but the joy of service; to populate this world with a race of people whose central purpose it shall be, not to get as much as they can, but to give as much as they can—this is what Jesus came into this world to do, and what His church will be doing as soon as she comprehends her mission."

A Good Time to Buy Christmas Presents.

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

It is a common saying that there is no time like the present, and this remark applies just now with a special emphasis to the purchase of Christmas gifts.

Nearly everyone buys them sooner or later, but there are too many who defer the purchase until the last week or the last day or the last hour or the last minute. That is not the sensible or the considerate thing to do. It is not considerate, because it imposes on thousands of employes an entirely unnecessary and excessively exhausting strain. If Christmas buyers would only get what they want in good time, so that the additional business of the season should be spread over three or four weeks instead of being compressed, as usually happens, into one, the recurrence of the great festivity would not be regarded by thousands of workers with a feeling of apprehension and the big department stores would be relieved of the necessity for holding evening sessions. Right-minded people should and will think of that and they will act accordingly.

But to do the Christmas shopping early is not only considerate; it is sensible and advantageous for a variety of reasons. One reason is that to buy now is to get the pick of the stock. It is true that Christmas is a little more than three weeks away, but the stores are ready for it and those who supply their wants now will get the freshest and best of everything going. They will also be able to do their shopping with much less personal inconvenience.

They won't have to wrestle with a crowd of others bent on the same errand as themselves. They will be able to get such attention as it is impossible for them to secure for merely physical reasons in the time of rush and after they have obtained what they were looking for they won't be obliged to carry it home in order to make sure of having it in time, as they would probably have to do if they waited until the eleventh hour.

Houlton Womans' Club.

The adjourned session of the Houlton Womans Club met at Forester's Hall Monday Dec. 2. Following the report of the Sec'y, Mrs. Nellie Page announced the subject, An Afternoon with American Poets.

Mrs. Burpee was first called upon and gave a sketch of Whittier—our beloved Quaker poet, telling of the aspirations of his youth the realizations of his early life and the fullness of his rare old age.

Mrs. Page then reviewed Lucy Larcom's beautiful life, both as a child and later as a student, and her unusual poetic gifts.

Eugene Field's wonderful insight in to child life was then lightly touched upon and Mrs. Hughes sang "Little Boy Blue."

Will Carleton was after this reviewed criticised and commended—Mrs. Harry Putnam read one of his familiar selections.

James Whitcomb Riley was next in order and his dialect stories and poems were pleasantly dwelt upon, and Mrs.

Ludwig sang "There Little Girl, Don't Cry."

Longfellow was given loving thoughts and tender remembrance by all and in conclusion Mrs. Harper sang "The Bridge."

The Farmington Chronicle make this inquiry:

"How far is Judge Stearns of Bangor responsible for the O'dtown mob against the Sturgis deputies?"

His philippic against our State law, against our Sturgis commission, and against Sturgis deputies, bore fruit quickly."

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Training the colt.

AN ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCE BETWEEN TRAINING AND BREAKING.

Upon the manner in which the colt is handled in its infancy will depend the value or, undesirability of the horse. In no other direction is it nearer true that "as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."

The custom in former times prevailed, to a much larger extent than now, of letting the colt run untamed until old enough to work and then "breaking" it; and this method is still practised much more commonly than is ought to be. Almost any day on the road one may see hitched to a "brake" cart, a three-year old, with heaving flanks, welled sides and sweating belly, being "broken" to harness. The wild eyes, the bloody foam hanging from the mouth, and the nervous start from side to side, tell the whole story of the process; and if the terrified creature finally becomes tractable and retains any spirit, it will not be the fault of the breaker.

The education of the colt should begin when the baby is two weeks old. It should at this time be handled carefully and gently, so that from its earliest days it may be used to the hand of the master, and that without fear. The lessons in leading should begin early, and tying the colt to the bridle of the dam or to that of another horse will accustom the youngster to its future tanks.

Every part of the harness should be successively fitted on, care being taken not to frighten the colt, so that when its life work begins it will accept the harness as a matter of course. It should be led or driven on the roads and accustomed to the sight of all the things it is likely to meet on the highways. This part of the colt's education calls for the exercise of great patience and gumption.

Colts should be petted, but not to the extent that familiarity will breed contempt. They should be taught prompt obedience at the start by intelligent direction and not by harsh measures, so that they will at once and for always understand just what any particular command means, and instantly obey it. No creature is more amenable to kindness than the horse, and few are more resentful of harsh treatment or remember it longer.

Colts trained along the lines we have described do not have to be "broken in." When they are old enough and strong enough to begin their work life they will fall as naturally into steady habits as though they had always been accustomed to the collar and traces and the use of bit and reins.

Feeding for Winter Eggs.

I think a good method of feeding for winter eggs is as follows: In the morning a light feed of whole wheat scattered in the straw which is about six inches deep. I want my fowls to work for a part of their food; it is their nature to be busy and the exercise is a better stimulant than all the egg producers or poultry foods manufactured. It is useless to expect any eggs during the winter if the hens are allowed to gobble up all their food in a few minutes and then sit upon the perches and mope there until they become hungry again. Sometime during the morning a feed of mash composed of wheat bran and middlings about equal parts with a little salt added should be placed in troughs; about as much as they will clean up in an hour or so. The evening feed should consist of as much whole corn as they will eat up clean. Green food must be supplied in some form; mangel-wurzels make an excellent green food. Fresh green cut bone should be given every other day. Green bone will certainly make hens lay; I have fed it for some time and have noted its effects. I have sometimes been obliged to discontinue its use and have always observed a decrease in the number of eggs; at a cent a pound it is cheaper than grain and far more satisfying. When green bone is fed the eggs have far greater fertility, producing chicks with a greater vitality, and much larger in size; any one who doubts its value can test it for themselves at a very small cost. In ten days' time you can notice the difference in egg production and in the fall you will be convinced that green cut bone is an essential food.

Tehre should be a supply of grit and shell before the birds at all times. Another very important factor is the water supply. Laying hens need fresh water almost as much as food. A dust box is greatly appreciated by the fowls and is one of the best means of keeping them free from lice. There are also many other things to look after in order to keep the fowls in a healthy condition and unless they are kept healthy they will not be very profitable.

We could get a better price for our fresh laid eggs if we would all put a proper value on them. So far the cold storage men are the only ones who have been of assistance in making prices of eggs. They help by taking care of the spring supply and regulate the general market in winter, but the fact remains that fresh laid winter eggs are in a class by themselves.

Perhaps our greatest difficulty in getting a better price arises from the fact that most farmers keep a lot of hens without giving them any attention and figure that whatever they get for their eggs is all clear gain. If they bought their feed they would get their eyes open.—J. G. Snodgrass, before Ohio Institute.

Sheep in Winter.

PROTECTION FROM HARSH WINDS, WET FEET AND SOAKED WOOL. FEEDING AND SALTING.

F. A. Strohschein, Metz, Wis.

The sheep yard should be protected on the windward sides by a high board fence, by a building or anything else that will break the force of the cold, piercing winds. Sheep can endure low temperature better than cows or horses, but heavy winds are injurious to them. Especially should they be protected from the cold winter rains. Dampness causes colds, and is the reason for other ills to which sheep are heir.

The yard must be well drained to prevent foot rot. A heavy covering of straw is of advantage. It permits the winter rains and the water from melting snow to pass through and leave the surface more dry. A southern exposure should, whenever possible, be given the yard. The sun's warmth will then dry out the surface readily and keep it in a better sanitary condition.

Salt, every one knows is important for sheep; yet some neglect to provide it regularly. Although I don't keep a large flock, I prefer to have salt where the sheep can lick it whenever they crave it. This I think much better than feeding it several times a week as some do. From the action of the animals when salt is withheld for several days, I take it that it is as necessary for them for the perfect digestion and assimilation of their food as it is for human beings.

A trough under an open front shed should be kept filled with salt at all times. If one has not such a shed, care must be taken that the salt trough is not filled with ice and snow so the sheep cannot get the salt.

Timothy hay is a comparatively poor roughage for sheep. Clover, pea vine hay or any other kind of hay made from legumes is good. If one grows peas or beans for their seeds, the straw makes good sheep feed. Of course, some concentrated food must be fed, too. Some here feed the pea straw untrashed, but many a pea is lost then. As peas are rich in nitrogen, this means quite a little. They are, however, a good feed for sheep when ground.

Oats are said to promote wool growth. Little appears to be known as to the effect of certain feed stuffs on the promotion of wool growth, anyway. Here is something for the experiment stations to ascertain.

When the wool becomes soaked with water—um, well it doesn't become soaked, as that word is generally understood; yet the tips of the wool may rot if the sheep are much exposed rains. As such wool does not command the top price, this is another reason for keeping sheep out of winter rains.

Selecting a Dairy Cow.

HER VALUE NOT TO BE ESTIMATED BY SPECIAL PERFORMANCE.

H. E. Cook, Denmark, N. Y.

Abnormal production for brief periods must not control the selection of dairy cows. It is the cow that works steadily and faithfully, day after day and year after year, which brings profit. The world depends upon men who are able to bear a constant strain. A study of their mental and physical make-up reveals compactness and a well balanced formation of every part as it relates to the whole. Every part gives strength and support to every other part, and hence a valuable unit.

I query whether we give this principle sufficient weight in determining values in the dairy cow. The casual observer is impressed with good handling qualities. When carried to the extreme these mean slack constitution, with the well known quality of open organization which may express a positive weakness if their muscular development is not strong. I notice among my own cows that often those which are of rather slow development possess the greatest wearing qualities. They are not, as a rule, of the extreme dairy type. They do not often possess the ideal handling we so much desire.

Now, I consider handling very important. A cow with no elasticity or mellow touch will not respond to feed in large milk production. Avoid it. But the point I wish to make is that the extreme delicate hide and the small tail are points indicating slack constitution and are not elements of strength.

The price of milk is of course all important, but no conceivable value can compensate for lack of function and nutrition.
